Dear Scott,

Thank you for the recent gift of $5,500 to the Fort Worth Institute for Supply Management Scholarship.

With this charitable investment, you join a group of proud alumni, parents, and friends of the school who have “re-invested” their financial success in the present—and future—of Neeley. In doing so, you strengthen the Neeley network and make the road to personal success wider for all of us. We owe you our lasting gratitude and also our commitment to building the premier private business education in Texas—and far beyond.

Business is about profit and loss, but even more fundamentally about the personal connections that create possibilities—and it is here that Neeley shines brightest. In building on our traditional excellence in our functional areas, we won’t lose sight of the people behind the numbers.

At Neeley, we are mindful stewards of your gift, and keenly aware that our supporters provide us with the margin of excellence that will keep us in the vanguard of business education. As we grow in size and national stature, we pledge to maintain Neeley School’s traditional distinction, a commitment to the people who have given us the opportunity to shine. People like you.

I invite you to contact me with any questions or thoughts you may have.

Thank you,

O. Homer Erektion
